

The Arc of Baltimore and Planned Parenthood of Maryland Present:

Sexuality and Relationships for People with an Intellectual Disability:
Living Safer Sexual Lives

A One-Day Training for Professionals who serve people with intellectual disabilities

Date: Select Monday September 14th or Wednesday September 16th

Time: 9:00am-4:00pm (registration begins at 8:30am)

Location: Arc of Baltimore at Seton Park, 6151 Metro Drive Baltimore, MD 21215-3205

Cost: $70 (includes lunch), free parking available on site

The training is eligible for social work CEU credits.

This training will focus on how to respond with respect and affirmation. Participants will identify key sexuality issues that often effect sexual development for persons with an intellectual disability and develop strategies for dealing with sexuality and relationship issues with the individuals in their programs.

About the Trainer: Mary Greenfield presently works with people with intellectual disabilities and staff as a sexuality educator/trainer. She is a certified sexuality educator by AASECT, American Association of Sexuality Educators, Counselors, and Therapists, and has worked nationally as a trainer and consultant to agencies, school districts, and parent groups. Mary's trainings are routinely praised by participants and she is widely considered a dynamic, insightful and highly skilled trainer.
