Patients who participate in Urine or Blood HIV testing through Planned Parenthood may receive results that require follow-up testing.

Some people without HIV-1 antibodies in their system may have a false reactive result during the testing process. Clinical studies show that falsely positive results may be expected for individuals at high-risk for HIV-1 infection and for individuals with other compromising medical conditions.

If your test presents a reactive result, a second test called a "Western Blot" will be performed by the lab in order to determine if the test is truly positive or negative. The Western Blot confirmatory test costs an additional $50.00 which will be your financial responsibility. Although there is no way to tell beforehand that you will need to have this additional test, we will notify you of the additional charge at your results visit.

If you have any additional questions, please feel free to speak with the Clinical Assistant conducting the testing. Thank you!

I agree to pay the $50 additional testing fee of the Western Blot test is required.
