PARTY WITH PLANNED PARENTHOOD

Proving the theory that sex, politics and cocktails a/ways go together

WHAT: A party to benefit Planned Parenthood of the St. Louis Region

WHEN: Saturday, March 7 at 8 p.m.

WHERE: Atomic Cowboy (4140 Manchester Avenue, St. Louis MO 63110)

PRICE: $5 donation at the door

On Saturday, March 7, Atomic Cowboy will open its doors to supporters of Planned Parenthood of the St. Louis Region with a raucous evening with entertainment by Clownvis Presley, burlesque with Lola van Ella, free condoms, cocktails and much more.

A donation of $5 will be taken at the door and 10% of all bar sales will go directly to Planned Parenthood. Volunteers will give away Proper Attire® condoms – the organization’s new brand of protection that is “Required for Entry.”

“Party with Planned Parenthood” is sponsored by Planned Parenthood’s Young Friends Group who are setting out to prove the theory that sex, politics and cocktails always go together.

“Our group is a coalition of women and men dedicated to the continued and future success of the Planned Parenthood,” says Jackie Hamilton, Co-Chair of Planned Parenthood’s Young Friends Group. “This is an organization that has provided me and tens of thousands of other St. Louis women and men information on contraceptives, safe sex practices and political support to protect access to that information.”

For over 75 years, the Planned Parenthood organization in St. Louis has grown to include six health centers that provide information and services on reproductive health care to 34,000 women, men and teens annually. Services are offered on a sliding fee scale so that no one is turned away based on inability to pay.
