Because of you, Planned Parenthood continues to change lives every day. No other organization combines the care, education and advocacy work like we do. And as a regional affiliate, we provide vital services to the most vulnerable residents throughout a four-state area.

In 2013, states across the country restricted women’s access to health care. But PPRM defeated every similar attempt of this type across our region. And, in fact, our proactive public affairs team helped to successfully pass Colorado’s Comprehensive Sex Education law, as well as positive legislation for parenting and pregnant teens in New Mexico who are working to finish high school.

PPRM’s Responsible Sex Education Institute, in addition to helping craft Colorado’s new Comprehensive Sex Education law, also completed a comprehensive community needs assessment to identify gaps in sexual health education. Results of the assessment will ensure that our work to reduce teen pregnancy is cutting-edge and relevant to the populations we serve. Over the course of the year PPRM served 32,422 individuals with age-appropriate, medically accurate, comprehensive sex education.

As the Affordable Care Act moves toward implementation, we ensured our staff had the information necessary to educate our patients about their insurance options. PPRM is proud to say we will be here for all of our patients, whether they have private insurance, are eligible for Medicaid or pay for their services on their own. Our health centers continue to stay at the forefront of reproductive health, providing 106,152 women, men and teens in 2013 with compassionate, non-judgmental care. As one patient stated, “The staff was welcoming and helpful; they were courteous and knowledgeable. They answered all of my questions and quelled all of my fears. They made me feel human.”

Indeed, Planned Parenthood changes lives. From the teen who realized that the choices she made could affect her high school graduation to the woman who detected cancer early enough for treatment. We are able to do all this only through your support and generosity.

Your dollars help pay our educators to teach comprehensive sex education. Your dollars ensure we can offer quality reproductive health care even to those who can’t afford to pay for it. Your dollars allow us to fight for women’s access to health care.

2014 will bring exciting changes for us as we introduce innovative education programs, transition into the new landscape of health care reform, and lead the fight to ensure access for women. But we couldn’t have gotten to this point without you, our donors. Your support changes lives. Every day.

The truth is, not all kids remain abstinent until marriage or after high school. Other sex ed just tells you sex is bad and not to do it. This sex ed gives kids useful info about sex and how to prevent pregnancy and STIs. It shows kids how to be safe!

It’s ok to say no to sex.

I was surprised that there can be so many negative outcomes to having unprotected sex!

One thing I’ll do differently after this class is never have sex without condoms.

Something I know I’ll remember is that Planned Parenthood will always be there to think if I have any questions they can give me answers and won’t judge me.

I had no idea that AIDS can be spread with needles, like getting a tattoo, not just through having sex.

I thought it was cool that our sex ed teacher tells us like it is.

The thing I liked most about the program is that I never felt uncomfortable. That was cool.

We engaged over 60,000 activists across our four state region.
Through her involvement with Planned Parenthood, my mother set a wonderful example for me. She inspired me to connect with this vital organization for our community, and I’m honored to help pave the way for future generations.
