The CDC Awards $4 Million Dollar Grant to Local Health Agencies for HIV Prevention Project

CLEVELAND, OH – July 1, 2015 – The Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) announced this week that Recovery Resources, Care Alliance Health Center, and Planned Parenthood of Greater Ohio will receive a $4 million dollar grant over the next five years to implement evidence-based interventions designed to impact HIV prevention by reducing high-risk behaviors among young (ages 13-29) African American males. This funding effectively doubles the HIV prevention resources available in Cuyahoga County.

The partnership known as Cuyahoga County/Cleveland High-Impact HIV Prevention (CCHIHP) has identified Recovery Resources as the Lead Agency and Fiscal Agent for the project. Beginning in late 2015, the CCHIHP team will initiate a highly-targeted campaign to reach at-risk populations. The program increases community-based HIV testing via a mobile van, community outreach including social media and traditional marketing, and linkages to health care services for newly diagnosed individuals. This project includes evidence-based behavioral change models aimed at risk reduction and linkage to primary care for young, black, gay men. The project is estimated to provide 21 new jobs, and serve more than 30,000 people over its five-year duration.

According to HIV/AIDS surveillance records at the Cleveland Department of Public Health, approximately 200 county residents were newly diagnosed with HIV-only or HIV-with-AIDS in 2013, and African American males are disproportionately affected; 42 percent of all HIV cases in 2012-2013 diagnosed were among African American males ages 13-29.
