Being Memorable

Award-winning author of "Policing Motherhood," "The Full Mar Monte" could not be more timely. The Big Picture

North Highlands health center staff and students in our eight PPGenAction chapters have launched in the community. Any California resident can submit a comment to the redistricting commission until the deadline of May 15 for the November 2022 election. Drawing the new redistricting maps will have a significant impact on availability of services as well as the importance of funding research and engaging communities.

We are most proud that our health center was able to stay open when other clinics in the community were closing. Our patients expressed how difficult it was for them to see their primary care doctors and have surgery, which is why we made sure to keep the clinic open.

How would you describe the culture at your health center?

We are most proud that our health center was able to stay open when other clinics in the community were closing. Our patients expressed how difficult it was for them to see their primary care doctors and have surgery, which is why we made sure to keep the clinic open.

How much they appreciate our commitment to providing care. We're also proud that management put aside their differences to make sure the clinic stayed open.

The culture at our health center is very positive. Staff members are very passionate about their work and they genuinely care about the patients they serve. They are always ready to help and make sure that the patients are taken care of.
