is a pill
to prevent HIV.

Ask about it.

PrEP is a daily pill for HIV-negative people. It protects you in case you are exposed to HIV in the future.

If you say yes to any of the questions below, PrEP might be right for you.

In the last 6 months, did you:

- Have sex without condoms with a person whose HIV status you didn't know?
- Have a sexually transmitted infection (an "STD"), such as gonorrhea, syphilis, or herpes?
- Have sex while drunk or high?
- Have sex for something you needed (such as housing, money, drugs)?
- Share needles or injection supplies?

In the last 6 months, have you had a sexual partner who:

- Refused to use condoms?
- Made you have sex when you did not want to?
- Had sex with anyone besides you?
- Has ever been in jail or prison?
- Injected drugs with a needle?
- Has HIV?
- Is a man who has sex with other men?

If you answered yes to any of the questions, ask a health care provider about an HIV test and whether PrEP might be for you.

PrEP is under YOUR CONTROL – you can use it with or without your partner's knowledge.

PrEP (Pre-Exposure Prophylaxis) is considered safe and effective

- More than 90% effective in preventing HIV infection if taken every day.
- Can protect you from HIV if you wish to get pregnant with an HIV+ partner.
- For people of all genders.

But PrEP protects only against HIV.

Use condoms and clean needles and injection supplies to prevent other infections.

Use birth control to prevent pregnancy.

How to get PrEP

PrEP is covered by Medicaid and many health insurance plans. Assistance programs can help cover costs. Speak with your provider about payment options.

If your health care provider does not prescribe PrEP, call 311 or go to nyc.gov/health and search for "PrEP" to find a list of providers who do.
