INJECTION SUPPLY RESOURCE LIST

At PPLM, we provide the injection supplies you need as part of your prescription to pick up at your pharmacy. If you run into issues acquiring injection supplies at your local pharmacy, here are some other options to get what you need.

Online Websites for Injection Supplies

Medical and diabetes supply websites are great sources for HRT injection supplies. Needles are generally classified by length and gauge (diameter). Please consult the appropriate injection guide section on intramuscular or subcutaneous injections for the specific needle gauges and lengths you need.

Syringes are generally classified as Luer lock and non-Luer lock (or Luer slip). Luer lock syringes require the needle to be twisted and locked into place, and non-Luer lock or Luer slip syringes require the needle to be pressed onto the tip tightly without a lock. We recommend using 1mL Luer lock syringes for HRT injections (3mL syringes are OK to use but not preferred).

Some medical supply websites that offer injection supplies with discreet shipping/packaging are:

<https://westendmedicalsupplies.com/>

<https://www.gpzmedlab.com/>

<https://medlabgear.com/>

<https://www.exchangesupplies.org/>

<https://www.healthwarehouse.com/>

Never reuse or share needles or syringes! If you cannot afford get them from a local pharmacy or online, visit a needle exchange near you for supplies.
